

Republican Camouflage.

By agreement between Democrat and Republican headquarters all the speaking dates were postponed until after the Liberty Loan Campaign, closing October 18th.

During this recess the Republican Campaign Headquarters are stuffing the mails full of Republican literature and every roustabout, jack-leg precinct Republican henchman is working overtime and as busy as bees "tackling" Democrats whom they have been told were soft and could be influenced.

The speech of Ben Bruner, in which he tells the voters that there should be no partisanship in this election, and that just so a man is for the war program, or pretends to be is sufficient and that it is immaterial who is elected, is the old story and tactics followed by all parties everywhere, whether, county, state or national politics, when the man wanting to be elected knows his party is in the minority.

Bruner would like for the Democrats of Kentucky just now to forget that he has for years been one of the most bitter partisan and uncompromising Republicans on the stump. He wants them to forget his violent, vituperative and slanderous attacks made on the Democrats in the Goebel campaign, some of which were made in LaRue county and well remembered.

He wants them to forget the lovely sweet smelling names he applied to all prominent Democrats the time he got beaten for State Senate in this district by "Uncle" Tom Gorin.

He would indeed like very much for you just now to forget his fiery, inflammatory, race prejudice speeches delivered at Sonora and many other places in the 4th district when he was a candidate for Congress against the Hon. D. H. Smith, of Hodgenville.

He would also like for you to not remember his efforts to explain away and justify the Bradley's purchase of the Senatorship when opposed by Gov. Beckham.

If he would only repeat one or two of the many compliments he paid to Woodrow Wilson while Wilson was a candidate for President, it would give more light on the subject than what he says now; among those he said, "Will this Nation Elect a Theorist, a dangerous fanatic like Woodrow Wilson to the high office of President," and then only two years ago, just two years ago remember, among many hundreds of similar compliments he charged that Wilson's administration was "A disgraceful failure."

Yes he admires Wilson just as you did Taft, Cannon, Penrose, Bill Bradley and Gus Wilson.

He feels toward Senator Beckham, Ollie James, W. J. Bryan and all other Democrats, as you do toward a snake.

Senator Beckham says Mr. Bruner is running on dead issues and questions already settled and it is only necessary to read his speech to see that it is true, in one place he says he favors "A sound and unquestioned monetary system." This is his method of attacking the Democrats and beletting their policies because of once the leadership of Bryan, why mention that subject which was settled 22 years ago this fall. He says also he favors woman suffrage, a Democrat Legislature at Frankfort last winter has already submitted that question to the Kentucky voters and will be voted on by the people and if carried, Kentucky women will then vote whether they do in other states or not.

He says he is for prohibition, a Democrat Legislature submitted this question last winter also to the people and the voters will vote on it next year.

The nation wide prohibition amendment was ratified last winter by the Legislature and signed by the Governor. Kentucky already having ratified the amendment so far as we as a State are concerned.

So it seems Senator Beckham is very much correct when he says, Mr. Bruner is raising dead issues and questions that have now been settled so far as Kentucky is concerned.

Listen how he appeals to the disgruntled, the slacker, the pacifist, and the pro-german vote, he says in this printed speech mailed out; "We must prevent and prohibit the further spread of undue socialistic tendencies toward federal ownership which is exploited by some as a panacea for every real or fancied ill of human society, and as quickly as possible set these great principles in motion that will place the nation's feet once more firmly on the paths of progress and prosperity along the ways which liberty order and justice must ever guard and keep."

Here he attacks the government control policy made necessary by the war and practiced by all the Allies, this of course is a direct bid for the vote of the man who is sore because government control or limitations has in any manner prevented him from doing business as previously, this is what he means to say and is an effective appeal for such support, yet he says he will support the Administration policy.

In another part of his speech he repeats the old time worn Republican speech that because this country has increased in wealth and population in the past fifty years that the Republican party is responsible for it.

In another place he says at the close of war the tariff must be properly adjusted between this and all other countries but he does not say he will vote with the President in that matter.

On the whole, and in substance he will vote on war measures as everybody else does, but during his six long years he would serve through the remainder of this administration and all through the next to work, canvass and vote for and with the Republican party and against the Democrat president and Democrat party on all questions great and small that have divided the party these fifty years. It would not be so bad or noticeable if he served for one year but six years will see him or any other Republican sent from Kentucky cast votes, make speeches and conduct himself toward the great Democrat party and Democrat issues that will cause any Democrat to blush with shame and a thousand times regret the action if they have in any manner helped elevate a bitter enemy of the party to this high office to kill the vote of our Democrat Senator already there.

If Ben Bruner should be elected to the Senate he would be the Republican ACE of the party in this State. You would feel his influence next fall when he takes the stump for Ed Morrow against James D. Black for Governor. Bruner has asked the Democrats some questions which have been answered above and now here are some questions for Democrats to ask themselves:

Will not Bruner after the close of the war, if elected, vote against every Democrat measure coming before the Senate?

If the Republicans carry either house of congress they will re-organize that house, oust the Democrats from the War Committees, place Republicans in their stead, and claim honor of winning the war, are you in favor of this, what have you against Democrat leader Kitchen, Speaker Champ Clark, Senator Beckham and other such Democrats?

Since our Democrat administration has had to bear all the blame and responsibility of this war and Wilson desires his party to remain in power till it is finished that he may be supported during and after the war, do you want to turn the President's party out of power.

Every War President has in time of war been supported by having his party in power during the War, the people recognizing this as a necessity and it being a necessity, why should Woodrow Wilson be refused this necessity?

If you vote for Ben Bruner he is out of your mind immediately afterward, but if you elect him you send him up to bother Woodrow, for two years; Has not the President enough on hand without being bothered with the wind jamming, demagoging, egotistical, camouflaging tactics of Ben Bruner.

If this is a non-partism election why are all Republicans without a single exception against the Democrat ticket?

When all Republicans expect to vote against your ticket and then try to get some Democrats to vote for their ticket, because they find themselves in the minority, what is the difference in their tactics after attempting to destroy your party from the German, who finds himself licked and yells "Kamerad."

Is it any argument that because the Republican party has so few white people in it, that the 60000 colored votes added to them still leaving them short a few votes, and that you should line up with them and theirs to defeat the rank and file of Kentucky's citizenship and their choice in this matter.

Who do you say the slacker, the pacifist, and the German vote in Kentucky will support this time; if he has a grievance of any sort against the administration, will he support the party of the administration? He wants you to help him give the administration a black eye.

Many good loyal Republican citizens will vote for Bruner, but they do so just as they always work and support their party and is their strong faith in their party any reason why you should desert yours?

Will you ask your Republican friend if he will vote for Black for Governor next fall against Ed Morrow?

Do you know this is not a local state fight that is in progress but that all Congressmen all over the union and many Senators are to be elected, that the Republicans have national headquarters and their program is to control either or both houses of Congress, that the issue in one state is one thing and another state is another thing but the program as a whole is to get a majority of the house and Senate if only one majority and they do not care a rap what their men stood for in the separate states?

Will you be so short sighted and not see the whole program of the two parties, in the nation, that November 5th will disclose to the world whether or not America's War President has been given a vote of confidence or a rebuke?

Do you think the President is a partisan enough to want to dictate local politics for that reason alone, or do you think he is vitally interested in having a majority regardless of where they come from?

If he does not get men from Democrat States like Kentucky, where will he get them?

Don't you suppose that knowing he was entitled to one from Kentucky is why he asked you to send him a Democrat?

Is there very much difference if any in changing the Senate and House and asking the President to resign?

Do we mean that Republican candidate are pro-german and disloyal, No certainly not, but it means that you think your president and your party was not big enough to handle the situation and had to throw up the job?

If Ben Bruner is anything more or less than a Republican who wants all Republicans to succeed and Democrats to fail, why does he support a new untried Republican for Congress against Swager Sherley, whose worth, work and patriotism is recognized by all the south in his present position on Coast Defense and Naval Affairs?—Larue County Herald.

A RESTLESS TRAIN.

As an evidence that locomotives have sense the same as human beings, a peculiar accident occurred at Horse Branch last Saturday evening. While waiting for the time to depart from the depot, the hour being late, the boy who watches the engine left the cab and went to a nearby restaurant for a few minutes. The passengers were all in the coaches and in a few minutes they felt the train begin backing. It got faster and faster till they were thrown forward in their seats with a lurch and it came to a standstill. Upon investigation it proved that it had jumped the track and had plowed through a large heap of ashes. In some manner the throttle had slipped and the engine started of its own accord. If the engineer had not arrived a serious wreck would doubtless have occurred. It required some time to get the coaches back on the track. It was the train that runs between Owensboro and Horse Branch.

OHIO COUNTY

OVER THE TOP.

Ohio County has again demonstrated her patriotism and unflagging support of the government, by far oversubscribing her quota in the fourth Liberty Loan. The quota set by the District committee seemed high and some of the faint-hearted had already begun to murmur that it would not be raised, but their murmurings should be forever put to silence in the results of the Loan in this County. The quota was $256,000. With some of the districts not yet fully tabulated, the returns show approximately $330,000—$74,000 oversubscribed. Much of this was due to the enthusiasm of the county's citizens and committeemen, and the untiring efforts of the county chairman, Mr. John H. Barnes. Without the co-operation of the county's citizenship with the chairman this desired end could not have been accomplished. Ohio County stands in the forefront of those counties of the state which have oversubscribed their quotas.

SERGEANT LEE BROWN KILLED IN FRANCE.

Another Ohio County boy has poured out his life-blood for the sake of ideals held dear. Sergeant Lee Brown, of Echols, was killed in action in France, September, 28th. His father has received a telegram confirming his death.

He served in the regular army six years and arrived in France the 10th of last April. His mother died six years ago and he immediately enlisted in the army. At the expiration of his term of service he reenlisted. He leaves behind him a father and four brothers, besides a sweetheart in New York. His family have the sympathy of all in Ohio County who love our Country's flag.

Mrs. Butler is proprietor of the leading mercantile store and is the owner of a large farm near Pattiesville.

GERMANY'S RULE OF CONQUERED LANDS IS LESSON TO AMERICA

Consider What Would Happen to Us
if the Improbable Should Take Place.

Copies of the Journal de Geneve received at Washington show just what sort of a peace the Germans enforce on a conquered people when they feel able to dictate to the conquered.

By cable from London and from the Geneva newspaper just mentioned it appears that among other terms forced by the Huns upon the Roumanians the whole male population from age 14 to age 60 is subject to forced labor at the will of the Prussians. Under this decree Roumanian farmers have been required to work at long distances from their homes and for the sole benefit of the invader.

Officials here point out that America could expect no better peace terms from the Huns in case the fortunes of war should turn against this country and the Germans should dictate how we should make peace and manage our affairs.

Means Virtual Slavery.

It would mean that a farmer might be required to leave his family and farm to get along as best they could while he was put on a train with thousands of others and taken to the passes of the Alleghenies to build fortifications for the Huns against any possible rebellion of Americans against their conquerors.

The same tactics have been followed in Belgium, in Serbia, in Poland and in the Ukraine of Russia, wherever the Germans have made themselves the masters. Roumanian elections have been dictated at bayonet points and the people are not permitted to pass from one part of the country to another without special permits that are very hard to obtain.

It is this known history and these known traits of the German character that make the most telling arguments for subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan. It is only by subscribing the full loan that we are able to maintain armies and keep up the fight, and it is only by creating an army to smash the Hun forever that we can absolutely assure ourselves that this country will not undergo the fate of Belgium or Roumania or North France.

If there were enough "slackers" among the people of this country it would be only a question of time until we were in the same condition as Roumania. The world opinion is firm that Germany had set out to make itself master of the world.

FRENCH GO BACK TO CANDLES

Scarcity of Materials Used for Lighting Has Led to Revival of an Ancient Art.

While the war has wrecked some industries in France, it has at the same time created new ones and revived older crafts. An excellent and interesting example of the latter is the art of candlestick making, which has taken on a new lease of life. Even in some of the big towns there are houses which are not supplied with gas, where before the war petroleum or spirit was used for lighting purposes. Now that the use of these is restricted closely, recourse has to be made to the old-fashioned candle.

This is true in the country especially where candlesticks are in great demand, and every one is buying them according to his means or fancy. At first they were made of copper, but when that metal became scarce brass was employed. Some of the modern examples have several branches and are very artistic.

A domestic art metal worker at Aix, who has specialized in this kind of work, and has become quite a celebrity, has just constructed a series of tall iron candlesticks of very solid proportions which can hold several candles. They have been critically inspected by art metal critics and are claimed to be true works of art, and to appeal to all lovers of ironwork.—Scientific American.

LONG FAMOUS IN HISTORY

Vicissitudes of Old City of Jerusalem May Be Said to Be Without a Parallel.

The capture of Jerusalem by English troops recalls the tragic and fascinating story of that day, which carries us back through the mist of ages to the days when the throne of David was established within its walls. From that date we pass to the glories of the temple built by Solomon, which for centuries was to stand as the center and pivot of the Jewish nation and faith. The time came, however, when her days were numbered, and the drama of Calvary was followed a few years later by the onslaught of Titus, the Roman emperor, who encompassed the city round on every side and leveled it to the ground.

Round its ruined walls Saracen and Crusader were to fight continuously for its possession, and Christian knights flocked from all lands to the rescue of the holy places, until in 1099 Godfrey de Bouillon defeated his enemies and was chosen as the first Christian king of Jerusalem.

Following this, for a considerable period the city remained in Christian hands, until in 1517 it was captured by the Turks.

YOUTH-TIME

The important time to lay a strong foundation for robust manhood is while life is young and the body developing. A growing child needs every possible help to conserve energy and confirm the body in vigorous health. To a developing child

THE TEN WAR COMMANDMENTS

Adopted by the French People and Recommended to All Americans.

The economic and social section of the League of Patriots, with headquarters in Paris, 4 Rue Ste. Anne, has distributed a leaflet urging the French to endure without complaint the restrictions imposed upon them in the interest of their country. The following is a copy:

1. Do not forget that we are at war. In your smallest expenditure never lose sight of the interests of the native land.
2. Economize on the products necessary for the life of the country: Coal, bread, meat, milk, sugar, wine, butter, beans, cloths, leather, oil. Accept rations. Ration yourself as to food, clothing, amusements.
3. Save the products of French soil. Let some day you deprive your father, your son, your husband, who are shedding their blood to defend you.
4. Save the products that France must buy from foreign countries. Do not drain reserves of gold, which are indispensable to victory.
5. Waste nothing. All waste is a crime which imperils the national defense—prolongs the war.
6. Buy only according to your needs. Do not hoard provisions; your selfishness raises prices and deprives those of smaller means of things indispensable to existence.
7. Do not travel unnecessarily. Reflect that our trains are, before all, destined for the transportation of the troops, the feeding of the population, the needs of our national production.
8. Do not remain idle. According to your age and your ability, work for your country. Do not consume without producing. Idleness is desertion.
9. Accept without murmuring the privations which are imposed upon you. Reflect upon the sufferings of those who are fighting for you, upon the martyrdom of the population whose hearths have been devastated by the enemy.
10. Remember that victory belongs to those who can hold out a quarter of an hour the longest.

That France may live, she must be victorious.

BATTLE CRY OF FREEDOM

Abraham Lincoln said: "All you have to do is to keep the faith, to remain steadfast to the right, to stand by your banner. Nothing should lead you to leave your guns. Stand together, ready, with match in hand."—Chicago, March 1, 1859.

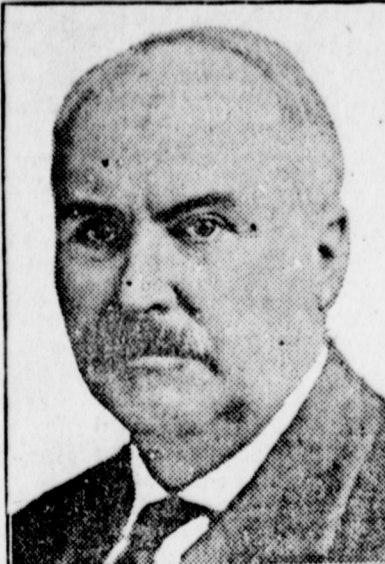

The match in your hand that will fire a gun against autocracy is a Liberty Bond.

One of Uncle Sam's Boys.

Although he had twice been unable to make his way through a steam-filled compartment, Walter D. McLea, a chief machinist's mate, national naval volunteers, United States navy, made a third go at it, and with success. In doing this he prevented a much more serious accident, and for his valor has been commended by the secretary of the navy. The engine room had been filled with live steam when the breaking of the tiller carried away the exhaust lines of the steering engine. At the first alarm McLea tried to enter the compartment where the steam was escaping, but it was not until he had made three trips down the ladder that he was successful in stopping the flow. McLea went into the navy April 8, 1917, entering the naval volunteers at Erie, Pa.

Dairy Show to Be Held at Columbus, O., Oct. 10-19.

Years of experience in handling large dairy and cattle shows throughout the United States has given Mr. Skinner a first hand knowledge of practically every prize winning cow in the United States.

From the veteran of a dozen prize rings to the yearling being shown for the first time, he knows them all by name, their breed and their probable performances.

SWISS CHEESE NOW MADE IN AMERICA

There was a day when "Swiss cheese made in America" was supposed to be a joke. That day has passed. One of the most interesting and informing exhibits which will characterize the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio, October 10-19, will be several tons of cheeses made in this country after famous formulas which have old world reputation.

Swiss cheese, Roquefort, Formage de Brie and Limberger cheese are all made in the United States better and more cheaply than they ever were made in Europe. An air of quaintness will be given the exhibition by having it in charge of young women garbed in the costume of the countries which once produced these cheeses for the American table.

High cheese of this sort may be considered a war industry. American manufacturers have made such progress that aside from the fact that European dairy herds are depleted almost to the point of extinction, it is doubtful whether European manufacturers will be able in many years to come to get back the market they formerly enjoyed in the United States.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS AT THE DAIRY SHOW

Columbus, Ohio. — A number of important conventions will be held in conjunction with the National Dairy Show, in Columbus, Ohio, October 10-19. They are The International Milk Dealers, October 14-15, The National Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, October 17-18, and The American Dairy Science Association.

NATION DEPENDS UPON DAIRY COW

This Truth Is Being Sent Home to the American People.

INDUSTRY MUST BE SUPPORTED

North America Almost the Only Land Where the Dairy Business Has Not Been Crippled to the Point of Extinction — Federal Government Lending Its Support to Spread This Message.

Without the dairy cow we cannot rear children.
Without children we cannot exist as a nation.

North America is almost the only land where the dairy industry has not been crippled to the point of extinction.

These three reasons, according to M. D. Munn, of St. Paul, Minnesota, one of the principal live stock men of the country and vice president of the National Dairy Show, are the reasons why the entire country must awake to the need of supporting the dairy industry as a whole.

These facts are being emphasized in connection with the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio, October 10-19, when the government will lend its strong support in sending home these truths to the people of the country.

According to Mr. Munn the vital lesson, which men like Dr. E. V. McCullum, of Johns Hopkins, are giving to the public here and there, must come home to the nation as a whole, if the United States is to be spared the misery which holds almost all of Europe in its thrall.

There are great areas in Europe where a man cannot buy a glass of milk for any amount of money. Every drop they have of the precious fluid is saved for children. And there are areas of devastated Belgium and elsewhere that the mortality among children is 90%. Think of it! It is the purpose of the National Dairy Show to encourage the discouraged dairymen of the United States to labor on.

There are, in round numbers, in this country, 23,000,000 dairy cows and these produce $9,000,000,000 pounds of milk. Large as this amount may appear, it is not sufficient for one half glass per capita for the population of this country per day, when other dairy products are taken out of the total supply.

Last year, over 19% of all food eaten in this country came from the dairy cow. In addition to this, the dairy cow is almost the sole support of soil fertility on the average farm. Agriculture would almost disappear from the United States within five years if the dairy industry were annihilated. At least, agriculture would be so seriously crippled that anything like commercial prosperity anywhere in the land would be out of the question.

The National Dairy Show is the one opportunity to bring the men of the country and the housewives of the nation together to give them the benefit of the collective wisdom of the United States in reference to the dairy cow. Just now dairymen everywhere are immensely in need of encouragement.

Blue-Blooded Horses Aid In Winning the War on Huns

THE Federal Government has recognized the importance of scientific horse breeding and the relation of the horse show to the industry by granting special railroad concessions to the animals that will be shown at the Horse Show, which will be the night feature of the National Dairy Show at Columbus, O., Oct. 10-19. The first three days of the show will be given over to Percherons, The week of Oct. 14-19 will be devoted to saddle and harness horses, including jumpers, hunters and cavalry mounts. Johnny Jones, with Frances Robbins up, one of the prize horses of the Oppenheimer stables of New York City, is here shown ready for entrance at the Columbus show. Insert A. W. S. Blitz, New York, national manager of horse shows, who will be in charge of arrangements.

For United States Senator,
HON. A. O. STANLEY.

For Judge, Court of Appeals,
JUDGE W. E. SETTLE.

For Congressman,
HON. BEN JOHNSON.

The once vicious German daschund has tucked his tail and scurried under the bed.

Every Sunday during the gasolineless period was sunny, but as soon as the ban was lifted, it rained, leaving a muddy prospect.

At last the ban on gasolineless Sunday. It has accomplished its purpose. But now the folks are afraid to go out driving on account of the "flu."

The Fourth Liberty Loan is over. In this campaign, as in all former ones, Ohio county acquitted herself nobly. Her quota was far oversubscribed. This speaks for the genuineness of the county's patriotism, and her earnestness in the desire to see the war pushed to a successful conclusion.

As winter draws near and the influenza epidemic spreads, it is likely there will be much suffering unless the disease is arrested. With a world cursed with war, sickness and sorrow, it is a time for each person to be ready to stretch forth the hand of mercy, and the world will be drawn closer together in a bond of sympathy and love.

Don't worry, Mr. Thomas, about the chief battle of this war being "fit." The beginning of the end is here but the end is not yet. Whenever the Americans get well on German soil the "wool-pulling" will set in earnest. We respectfully refer you to our friend, Marshall Foch, who says the next offensive will probably be an American advance in Lorraine.

The article we published last week by Mr. Norman Hapgood is the product of a man who is known throughout the reading world as a literary star of the brightest luster. He is one of America's foremost authors and his contributions receive the highest consideration from our leading magazines. This makes the Hartford Republican's belittling remarks and criticisms of his eccentricities rather amusing.

Fifty years from now the young folks will read novels of the wonderful days of '18 and the great war overseas; and their dreaming fancies will span the parched years to see the faces of the young men of today who go forth to do battle for the right. The tender partings, the noble sacrifices, that today seem so much a part of our life, will form the theme for many a future romance; and the sacred soil of France will draw pilgrims for many a long long year. Truly, we are living in a wondrous age.

Dr. Bruner's grand-father was a soldier in the Revolution, his father in the Civil War, himself in the Spanish-American and his son in the present one. Some fighters! But the doctor will have to put up the hardest fight of all his progenitors if he wins a place in the Senate.

The world will be much smaller after the war than it was before—not smaller in miles or acreage, or in geographical extent; but by it the nation will learn more of each other and a new fire of brother-hood will be kindled, till from shore to shore, it may be said, hearts are touching. When an Australian and an American lie down in the trench together with an African and a Hindu, all with a common purpose and common end, there is sure to be a new and better understanding awakened among them.

It may seem a little stringent, but if we were to suggest a righteous punishment for those who are perfectly able to buy Bonds and refuse to do it, we would favor a complete boycott. A man who refuses to support his government is a German sympathizer whether he ever heard of Germany or not, and should be treated as such. If he is a merchant, refuse to buy his goods; tell him to sell them to the Germans; if he is a farmer, let him market his products with the Huns. Whatever his vocation let him follow it among those with whom he stands in sympathy. If he is a preacher, let him preach to, and go on to hell with the Germans.

It is a proud boast of the Teutons that since the days of Hermann they have never been defeated. The exuberance and stubbornness of the race have always brought them out the final victors, as in the war against Napoleon. But strangely enough Fate has never aligned them against the Anglo-Saxons. The Teutons have always clung to autocracy—the Anglo-Saxons to liberty. This war is primarily a testing of the races, whether the German races should rule or the free Saxons. Neither have ever been defeated. But even now history is writing the names of the victors—and they are the English speaking peoples the descendants of the Jutes Angles and Saxons.

The Government has seen fit to protect the soldier, not only while on the firing line, by war-risk insurance, but after he returns home. Being used to free out-door life, the soldier will naturally not wish to return to a stuffy office or grimy factory, but will long for the free air of the country and the exhilarating atmosphere of the great out-doors. Anticipating this, the government is arranging to reclaim several million acres of land which will be sold to the soldiers on easy terms. If needed, he will also be advanced money to build his home and improve his property. In this way, a home and livelihood is assured to each of the boys who have dared to sacrifice all for the sake of their country.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUPPORTERS.

The Hartford Republican has made the statement time and again that the Republicans have stood more solidly behind the President than the Democrats. Let us examine the records. As we all know, the ship-building program and the way it has been carried out is one of the chief triumphs of the Wilson administration, backed by a Democratic Congress and Senate. Ships to carry the food and munitions to our soldiers and our allies are of the most vital importance in winning the war. At the beginning of the war our merchant marine occupied a low place among the nations; today it is the second in the world. Every six minutes a merchant vessel arrives and another departs from American ports. What had the Republicans to do in this? In 1914-15 President Wilson asked Congress to pass a law appropriating $50,000,000 to enable the government to go into the ship-building business. The Democrats in the House passed the law despite Republican opposition. The bill went to the Senate where it remained until March 3, 1915, the day before congress expired by constitutional limitation. A Republican filibuster, led by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, blocked the passage of the bill during that session. A year later it passed both house and Senate. It passed the House by a vote of 209 to 161. Of the 161, 160 were Republicans. It passed the Senate by a vote of 38 to 21. Of the 21 negative votes 20 were cast by Republicans. And this is the way they supported the President's preparedness bills.

DON'T THROW AWAY Your Old Tires

Conserve and Help Lick the Kaiser

THIS is to show you why "DRI-KURE RETREADING" with a 3,500 mile guarantee will save you one-half to two-thirds on your tire bill.

"Dri-Kure Retreading" is a proven factory method—not the old "kettle" process that soaks the carcass of your tire with steam, that, when cold, turns to water and rots the fabric.

"Dri-Kure" method is operated by DRY HEAT under 3,000 pounds pressure. The mere fact that racing drivers use tires cured by the Dri-Kure Process is proof that we stand our treads for service.

Tim Alley, Chicago racing driver, averaged 104 miles per hour for 100 miles at Chicago Speedway, June 22, 1918, without a tire change and all on Retreaded Tires. There's a reason.

Now Compare the Cost and Saving

Compare the cost of the tire you have on your car now and the cost of Dri-Kure Retreading, the same size. The chart of prices will show you the cost of retreading.

Now Figure the Saving for Yourself and remember that every tire we retread is guaranteed for 3,500 miles. Is this saving worth while? Think it over. Who wouldn't want to save from one-half to one-third of their tire bills?

We will gladly show you the complete detail and extend to you a personal invitation to come in for a chat. We will prove to you the success of this process to your own satisfaction.

"GRIPPY" INFLUENZA Doctors Say: "Take Iron"

For building up weak, nervous, run-down people, doctors prescribe iron. It is the greatest blood purifier and strengthener known, and, taken in proper quantities, it builds up the body like nothing else can. But many of the iron preparations before the public contain too little iron; many of them contain from 10 to 25 per cent. of alcohol, and alcohol counteracts the efficiency of the iron.

Acid Iron Mineral

is free from the presence of alcohol. It is obtained from the only natural medicinal iron mineral deposit of its kind known to the world; a pure, natural iron product, free from the drug of the chemist and the "dope" of the pill maker.

In addition to three forms of natural iron Acid Iron Mineral contains magnesium, potassium, sodium and calcium, medicinal properties which your doctor prescribes for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, and many ailments arising from a disordered stomach. As a general tonic it comes closest to the ideal, making rich, pure blood, and toning up the system and weak vital organs to normal. (A-I-M is splendid for a nasal spray and gargle, prevents influenza). Don't delay, call for it today.

Be sure you get Acid Iron Mineral; ask for it by name. Look for the A-I-M trade-mark, it is your guarantee of a pure, concentrated, efficient, economical iron product. At OHIO COUNTY DRUG CO. INC., HARTFORD KY.

Opposite each breed is the man who will judge the cows, who will compete with these recognized leaders for first position.

They are Charles L. Hill, Rosedale, Wis., judge of Guernseys; W. S. Moscrip, Lake Elms, Minn., judge of Holstein cattle; H. H. Kildee, Ames, Ia., judge of Ayrshires; and Hugh G. Van Felt, Waterloo, Ia., judge of Jerseys.

HAS A MESSAGE FOR THE WOMEN

Government Considers Dairy Industry of the Greatest Importance.

ENGAGES EXPERTS' SERVICE

Prominent Women Educators Will Divide Their Time Between Washington and Columbus Until After the Great National Dairy Show Is Over.

The government plainly considers the dairy interests of the country of extraordinary importance and believes that it has a message of great value to the women of the United States as is shown by the co-operation which is being extended to the National Dairy Show which will be held at Columbus, Ohio, October 10-19.

The government has reached out and commandeered the services of two expert women from two of the leading universities of the country and has given them instructions to divide their time between Washington and Columbus until after the Dairy Show is over.

These women are Miss Emma Conley, in charge of the home economics department of the University of Wisconsin, now on a year's leave of absence to the States Relations Service Committee of the Department of Agriculture, and Miss Jessie M. Hoover, who was dean of the home economics department of the University of Idaho before becoming attached to the dairy division of the Bureau of Animal Industry at Washington. After making a survey of the possibilities of the Dairy Show for delivering the message the government wants the American housewives to get, they have named the following committee to co-operate: Miss Edna N. White, director home economics, Ohio State University, and president American Home Economics Association; Miss Gertrude Van Hoesen, formerly of the University of Chicago and now of United States Department of Agriculture, and Miss Anna Van Meter, home economics department, Ohio State University.

One of the largest of all the buildings of the Exposition Grounds will be turned over to this work. There will be practical demonstrations of dairy lunches of nutritious meals prepared largely from dairy products and there will be a special restaurant managed by the home economics department of the State University. Child Welfare work will be exemplified in many ways. There will be lectures and demonstrations of the necessity for milk in the diet of all children.

Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University will exhibit the famous rat colony which was used in his experiments to determine the actual food value of milk and the dire consequence of a lack of milk in the regular diet of youngsters.

Another special feature will be the possibilities of dairy products in filling the dinner pail, a problem which the women all over the United States are finding peculiarly difficult under the present high schedule of food prices.

SIREs AND THEIR GETs AMONG THE EXHIBITS

Calamity Jane will not be at the National Dairy Show at Columbus, Ohio, October 10-19 this year.

Calamity Jane attracted more attention a year ago in ten days than in all the three years of her earlier experience.

But Calamity Jane is dead. She has gone the way of many another unprofitable cow.

She was one of the 8,000,000 cows in the United States which eat more than they produce. They may give a little milk, night or morning, but in reality they milk their owner. It is part of the purpose of the Dairy Show to inspire farmers and dairymen everywhere to know exactly what each cow in their herd is doing and whether or not it is a profitable investment.

Among the exhibits which impress this lesson will be a series of sires and their gets, showing how intelligent breeding increases the output and consequently the profit of each generation of cows.

NATURE'S WARNING

Hartford People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously. But nature generally warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—If there are settlements and sediment. Pages, frequent, scanty, painful. It's time to fear serious kidney trouble.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Doan's have done great work in Hartford. J. A. Baird, R. F. D. No. 5, Hartford, Ky., says: "I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, but that was all I needed to cure me of kidney weakness. For some time I had been troubled by sharp twinges across my loins and other symptoms of kidney complaint. As I heard Doan's Kidney Pills being highly recommended, I got a supply and their use cured me. I highly recommend this remedy.

IT'S A PREMATURE MONUMENT

Tall Obelisk Was Raised by the Turks to Commemorate Anticipated Capture of Kut.

Approaching Kut-el-Amara from the south by the River Tigris, the first thing one sees nowadays is a tall obelisk. It stands on ground sacred to no people in the world but the British. Eleanor Franklin Egan writes in the Saturday Evening Post. It stands on the wide, shell-torn and deeply trenched neck of land—base of the peninsula on which the town is built—where for 144 days the shattered remnant of a British army withstood a double siege of constant bombardment and slow starvation.

This obelisk was raised by the Turks to commemorate the surrender of General Townsend and their victory over the British forces that had tried so long and so heroically to relieve him. To me it was an exclamation point to punctuate my own astonishment!

I saw it first in the wonderful lights of early evening—a tall white shaft in a half-circling fringe of palm trees, lifting itself against a background of placid river, which lay in a short, straight stretch to the north, reflecting the colors of the sunset.

Was ever anything quite so premature? It makes one realize, as nothing else could, how confident the Turks and the Germans were that they had the British in Mesopotamia permanently defeated. Defeated! It seems incredible that anyone could have imagined it. In the face of things as they have become, that obelisk seems to me to express a kind of whimpering enmity, as though it felt itself strangely inappropriate and would get away if it could to follow its builders on the long trail of retreat to the north. It is a monumental misadventure, the ironic humor of it being unique and a thing in which Englishmen may now rejoice.

Insisted Neighbor Was "Devil." She was a motherly old soul who wore glasses and she insisted, vehemently, that "that woman next door was a regular devil."

And when the police court complaint clerk asked her to explain further she said: "She's a spiritualist. She sits up all night putting evil thoughts into my head. She won't let me sleep."

It was a declaration that made the woman next the motherly old soul at the counter open one eye wide in amazement. That woman couldn't open both eyes, for her husband had blacked and closed one.

The complaint clerk tried to soothe the motherly old woman, but she kept on insisting that her neighbor sat up nights transferring evil thought from bedroom to bedroom. She wanted something done, she said, for, as she insisted over and over, "No decent person can do that."

The clerk had to humor her and it was a long time before he finally got rid of her.—Detroit Free Press.

Pays to Keep a Toad.

The toad is useful because of its diet. No less than eighty-three species of insects, mostly injurious, have been proved to enter into its dietary. In his "Civic Biology" George W. Hunter says: "A toad has been observed to snap up 128 flies in half an hour. Thus at a low estimate it could easily destroy a thousand insects during a day, and do an immense service to the garden during the summer. It has been estimated by Kirkland that a single toad may, on account of the cutworms which it kills, be worth $19.88 each season it lives, if the damage done by each cutworm be estimated at only one cent. Toads also feed upon slugs and other garden pests."—Popular Science Monthly.

TO END NOBILITY

Canadian Plan Strikes at Very Ancient Institution.

Proposal Is Called Radical and Affects Titles That Run Back to the Old French Regime.

The report from Ottawa that the Canadian nobility is to be abolished may be the first news to not a few on that side of the border, as well as to many on this side, that Canada has a nobility. The proposal is called radical, and it certainly does strike at a very ancient institution, states a writer in Providence Journal. If such a law is enacted in accordance with the recommendations of the government, in the form of an order in council, "no hereditary title shall hereafter be conferred upon a British subject resident of Canada," and "appropriate action shall be taken by the government to provide that, after a prescribed period, no title held by a British subject now or hereafter ordinarily resident in Canada, shall be recognized as having hereditary effect."

The reference presumably is to the titles that have come down from the period when the king of France "conceded his North American possessions in fiefs of duchies, marquises, counties, viscounties, baronies and other seigniories to the members of the noblesse, military officers and other men of merit admitted to the noblesse"—according to the old chronicle. And although, as one of the ancient regime has plaintively observed, "democracy has a hatred for natural superiority and endeavors to crush it out," the titular nobility seems to have survived among the "bourgeoisie" and "peasantry" of the husky young Dominion.

Canada has its college of arms and a number of American citizens who can claim descent from patrician families, or who by feats of arms or other public achievements have shown their merit, have qualified in some of the orders, and are privileged to display the ribbons and wear the court dress of "dark blue, red cord, gilt buttons of the imperial two-headed eagle, cavalry saber, and blue, red or green sash." At about the time of the Civil war one of these orders invited the membership of "those of the American states disgusted with the vulgarity and tyranny of democracy," and its rolls contain the names of General Gordon, General Vance and other distinguished personages of the Southern confederacy. Among the old French titles are Duc d'Arkansas and Baronet of Nova Scotia.

Fire Losses in North America. As has often been pointed out, the fire waste in the United States and Canada is extravagant. But Canada now proposes to reduce the damage by the adoption of compulsory fire prevention measures in accordance with the recommendations of the commission of conservation, says Providence Journal.

Excluding forest fires, the commission finds that since confederation the loss has been $700,000,000, while every year 200 lives are sacrificed in fires, and 500 persons are seriously injured. Canada's per capita fire loss is the largest in the world—$2.73—and that of the United States—$2.26—is second. England's figures are small—64 cents—but large in comparison with the 13 cents reported in Switzerland. France has a per capita loss of 74 cents. Conditions in these several countries do not seem to justify such an extraordinary difference in the fire records. Probably the explanation of the poor showing on this side of the ocean lies in the better enforcement of safety regulations in Europe, and in holding property owners accountable for the damages caused by fires starting on their premises.

The remedy proposed in Canada is in putting more responsibility upon owners of buildings and other combustible property.

Colored Regiments.

In 1866 congress passed a law that colored regiments should be a part of the regular army. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry and the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first regiments of infantry were organized March 3, 1869, a consolidation act was passed and the Thirty-eighth and Forty-first were reorganized as the Twenty-fourth regiment of infantry; the Thirty-ninth and Fortieth were reorganized as the Twenty-fifth regiment of infantry. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry won the reputation of being among the best Indian fighters on the frontier. At the outbreak of the Spanish war, in 1898, the four colored regiments were among the first troops ordered to the front, and they won distinction. At the first battle in Cuba, the Tenth cavalry played an important part of coming to the support of Colonel Roosevelt and the Rough Riders. The Twenty-fifth infantry took a prominent part in the battle of El Caney. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry and the Twenty-fourth infantry rendered heroic service in the battle of San Juan hill.—Boston Globe.

FORTY YEARS A DRUGGIST He Endorses PERUNA

Read this from Mr. L. A. Richardson of Marine, Illinois:

"I have been engaged in the retail drug business here for the past forty years. During this time I have seen many patent medicines come into use, flourish for one or two years and then gradually disappear. There are very few of these remedies that possess enough real merit to insure them long life. Peruna has always been a good seller with us, with a marked increase from year to year. The change in the formula some years ago, by the addition of the slightly laxative properties, has made it a reliable remedy for constipation and for colds. If taken hourly in tablespoonful doses by adults it will break up the worst cold in two or three days' time. I take pleasure in urging my brother druggists to recommend it for these two ailments."

American Finds Italy's King a Royal Democrat

Hamilton Holt Interviews Victor Emmanuel at the Front, Where He Lives Rugged Life of a Soldier.

By GARRET SMITH.

An alliance with Republican France in the world war for Democracy is perfectly understandable to every citizen of the United States. In the case of our other chief Allies, however, there are still left some old-fashioned American histories of a generation ago, who are a bit puzzled to find the country of George Washington lined up with the "king-ridden" nations of Europe.

But the King of Italy is not an old-fashioned King at all.

This view of Victor Emmanuel as a royal democrat is strikingly interpreted by Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, who has just returned from Italy, where he had a most unusual interview with His Majesty.

Mr. Holt went to Italy as the representative of the Italy America Society at the time of the celebration of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war. He was received in Rome with much ceremony.

"Finally, after these formalities were over," Mr. Holt told me, "I was conducted up through the northern provinces to the hills just behind the battle line. We stopped at a little villa belonging to a small wine merchant, which had been requisitioned for government use. There were two or three sentinels about the grounds and as many orderlies within. That was all, no other evidence that it was a post of great importance. An officer led me up to a bed-chamber on the third floor and knocked.

"Inside I was cordially greeted by a modest, middle-aged little man in a plain uniform that I could scarcely distinguish from that of a common soldier, no epaulettes, gold braid or medals, nothing but a ribbon showing years of service such as any soldier might wear. After a hearty handshake, he invited me to be seated."

That was the King of Italy as one Yankee saw him.

"There was not the slightest hint of royal ceremony about our meeting," declared Mr. Holt. "He simply ushered me into his apartment and invited me to sit down, as any private citizen would receive another. And it was a very simple little apartment with no hint of luxury about it. There was a simple bed, washstand, bureau and two or three little straight-back chairs—chairs that looked as though they might be of maple. I remarked on the simplicity of his quarters and he said they were much better than some he had occupied."

"In five minutes' time I had lost all sense of being in the presence of royalty. You know that ordinarily court etiquette demands that a private citizen shall not speak to a king in the course of an interview except to answer His Majesty. Before I realized it I had forgotten all about that convention and we were chatting freely, asking and answering questions back and forth and actually swapping yarns in good old Yankee fashion. He kept me talking for three-quarters of an hour and, of course, I had nothing to do with the length of the call, as I naturally followed custom to the extent of waiting for him to terminate the interview. The King speaks a perfect English, has a good sense of humor, enjoys telling a good story and enjoys listening to one. In fact the only difference apparent to me in our status as I look back on it was that such an interview was a very unusual experience for me, while it was not at all unusual for the King, and I forgot to be conscious of that at the time.

"Victor Emmanuel impressed me as a sort of combination of Colonel House and the late Frank R. Stockton. He is a man of simple and charming manner, without pose, who has thrown himself heart and soul into the cause of his country and is working for it night and day, as hard as any other person in Italy. But he prefers to stay behind the scenes while doing it."

A Hard-Working Monarch.

That this unceremonious reception of a representative of the American Democracy was no pose for theatrical effect is clearly evident from Mr. Holt's report of what he observed and learned of the King's daily routine. The Monarch has selected this little villa for his headquarters on account of its location in convenient reach of every part of the battle-line. Each morning he rises early, eats a simple breakfast, has a light luncheon put up for him, gets into his automobile and spends the day visiting some point on the line, conferring with the officers and talking with the soldiers, learning their needs first hand and inspiring them by his presence and his counsel. At night he studies the plans of battle for the following day and never retires without sending a letter to his family, to whom he is passionately devoted.

He has made observations of the battlefield from dirigibles and aeroplanes. At one time in 1915 he climbed to the snow-covered crest of Raichkogel Mountain when the temperature was below zero in order that he might congratulate the Alpine troops who had just captured several Austrian positions.

Experiences Under Fire.
"In the course of our conversation," said Mr. Holt, "he gave me a graphic description of his experience in one town near the frontier. The Austrians discovered his presence in the town and began bombarding it. The King immediately withdrew from the town in order that, as he told me, he might not unnecessarily imperil the residents. What he did not tell me was that he departed from the town openly, for he was evidently much more concerned for the safety of the people than he was over the peril to his own life.

"He is very much interested in the mechanics of warfare. He described graphically the barrage drill of the Italian troops as he had witnessed it.

"He showed me with great glee a German cross from a captured airplane he had framed and hung on the wall of his room. He described the different designs he had seen painted on German planes and was particularly amused at one which had the design of a Teddy Bear."

His Democratic Traditions.

The King's ability to play his present role is the result both of his democratic inheritance from his Savoy ancestors and his Spartan upbringing. He was tutored by a stern, old army colonel, who, at the direction of the boy's royal father, treated him in every way like the son of a private citizen. He has ever since preferred simple, rigorous living. Hunting and mountain climbing are among his favorite pastimes.

"What did he have to say about the political and military situation?" I asked.

"You must remember," Mr. Holt replied, "that one cannot quote a King directly. While we discussed various phases of the situation very freely, I would not be at liberty to give a verbatim report of his opinions. In fact, he was careful in talking with me not to express himself positively on matters of state policy. When I encroached on such ground, he would generally counter by asking me what they told me in Rome about it."

An Admirer of America.

"For instance, I asked him if it was true that Italy desired America to send military aid to her. He asked if they told me that in Rome.

"Yes," I replied.

"The King said that was right—Italy did want our aid. He said we could help particularly by sending them steel and coal.

"He expressed a great deal of interest in American affairs and the American attitude toward the war and kept me busy answering thoughtful questions about them. He expressed the greatest feeling of friendship towards America and appreciation for what we have already done in the war. He thought our efforts already made were marvelous."

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.

DEARLY NO SECRET

Power to Charm Lies in Forgetfulness of Self.

Women Who Fascinate Have Simply Developed the Art or Power of Putting Others "On Good Terms With Themselves."

A conscious woman writer seeking the secret of feminine fascination, finds it in the art or power some women have of charming others by putting them, as a bluff Britisher phrased it, "on rigging good terms with themselves." Is not this a characteristic of almost all those persons, men and women, whom we like the best and enjoy the most? Do they not, either by artifice or by instinct, endeavor to make the people they meet feel that they are something, know something, have some excellence, attractive or interesting qualities, and thus put them on pleasant terms with themselves. The persons who, are least apt at this or least inclined to try it are the self-centered, self-important people completely absorbed in their own affairs and not wise or well-bred in the worlds of which they are the members, and may be said in a certain sense to revolve about themselves.

This is a characteristic brought up from lower forms of life from which we are ancestrally derived and only in part outgrown. For most animals the only sources of the least importance are those which directly affect themselves. They are egocentric. The things that touch them make up their world and they have no interests outside of that. More than any other animal the dog can sink his personality so to speak, subordinate himself and make his master's interests his own. Only infrequent individuals of other species can or will do this. Hence dogs as a rule are more companionable for men than any other living creatures below him in the evolutionary scale.

But as return to human beings, Josephine was the most beloved and charming woman in France because she took a genuine and kindly interest in the affairs of all with whom she came in touch. She was outgoing, inclusive in her sympathies and thus counteracted antagonism created by Napoleon, who was self-centered to an extraordinary degree. Not to multiply examples, does not experience teach all ignorant people that in selfishness lies the secret of charm? Are not the trouble people those whose love goes not spontaneously, or appears to? Is not egocentricity, entire absorption in themselves, a characteristic held in common by most of the people who get on one's nerves? Kind hearts are more than coronets, said Tennyson.

More attractive, therefore, than beauty or the brilliancy and glitter of intellectuality is the drawing power of kindly consideration for others. Fascination is born of the heart, not of the mind; and whether instinctive or acquired, would seem to be the art of entering into the lives of others and getting them, as the Englishman said, on good terms with themselves.—Rochester Post-Express.

She Knew Better Anyway.
A certain small town, seven miles from anywhere else, as the crow flies, boasted only two physicians, Doctor Smith and Doctor Brown. There was considerable rivalry between the two knights of the pill and powder and when Doctor Smith received a very urgent call from a young farmer about four miles in the country, he left an office full of patients, cranked up what was to be cranked up and was off.

When he arrived at the farmer's house he found that a three-year-old "farmer" had cut his finger. The doctor was chagrined when he saw the "serious" nature of the accident. He thought of the office full of patients he had left and had visions of them walking in single file to the office of Doctor Brown.

"It was very, very silly of you to call me on this case," he said, somewhat testily, to the farmer's wife.

"I know it was, but Doctor Brown was out."

Strained His Telescope.
The oldest inhabitant of Little Corns possesses a telescope which he never uses.

"Why don't you make use of it sometimes, James?" a neighbor asked.

"It used to be a good 'un," James said sorrowfully, "but it's broke now."

"Broken?" the neighbor asked.

"How's that?"

"Well," James replied, "it was such a good 'un that I could see the old church across five miles away quite plain. But Joseph, the scoundrel, got the lens of it and tried to make out the steeple of the Methodist chapel morn'n ten miles away. He tried and tried and couldn't see it, so that he strained my eyes out. It's never been right since."

Commander a "Good Fellow."
One of the home-guard boys had on a uniform that was too large for him. While waiting on the station platform for the train to come the commander noticed this boy and coming up to him turned him around and around, looking at him over on every side. Finally he said: "Young man, that suit does not fit you."

The boy, not realizing to whom he was speaking, promptly retorted: "Well, that is no reason why I should be made a whiff of air, is it?"

That favored him and the commander laughed.

STOP THAT INDIGESTION.

In the long list of human ills there is none that causes more suffering, or is more productive of serious results than a disordered stomach.

It unfits you for business or pleasure, and opens the way for the most fatal disease to attack your system. Stomach trouble manifests its presence by flatulence, or "wind" in the stomach and bowels. The tongue is coated, the bowels are irregular, and there is depression, anxiety, despondency, dizziness, head ache, cramps, water-brash, constipation, diarrhea, or other complications.

For this aggravating disease, VIN HEPATICA has been found to be very prompt and effective. It should be taken in doses graduated to the requirements of the case, sufficient to establish a daily movement of the bowels.

Mr. W. T. Mackie, prominent planter, Route No. 1, Whites Creek, Tenn., says: "I was so troubled with indigestion that when I got up every morning I would feel as if I had had no rest at all during the night. But I took VIN HEPATICA, and was so greatly pleased with the relief it gave me that I recommended it to other members of my family and all of my tenants, who have been using it with most excellent results."

You can get this wonderful Nature remedy at the designated Vin Hepatica store.

Serbian Great Walkers.

All Serbian peasants are great walkers. A servant, given a short leave, will think nothing of footing it to his home, five and twenty miles off, and walking back after a short day spent with his family.

It is quite in the ordinary way of their business for both men and women to be two days on the road to market. Owing to their remarkable marching powers Serbian troops are mobilized and moved with surprising rapidity, in spite of the great lack of railway communication. And then they march light.

With little in the bread-bag that hangs at his belt the Serbian soldier is quite content if only he can roll himself a cigarette now and then and look forward perhaps to a tot of plum-cognac.

PLEASANT WAY ALWAYS BEST

Nothing Ever Lost by Effort to Take Sting Out of Request That Must Be Refused.

Do you know how to take the sting out of anything unpleasant you have to do? It is a good plan to learn how to do this.

"She said she couldn't do it, but you know how Effie would say such a thing. She tries so hard to make everybody feel pleasant. Now, when I say no, people understand that I mean no."

Marcia looked as well pleased with herself as if she had announced a more amiable characteristic. She was a girl with a peculiarly blunt and uncompromising manner. If she refused a request, her refusal was as downright as a blow. It was never softened by any little phrase suggesting regret. And Marcia was so well satisfied with herself that she felt something like contempt for the way Effie took the sting out of saying no, and made the people to whom she refused a favor as grateful as if she had granted it.

The girl who starts to go through life with her elbows out is going to find the road hard to travel. If she prides herself on being blunt and outspoken, she may need to use that as consolation for her sore heart many a time. It pays to make even a refusal pleasant. It pays to take out the sting whenever possible, and drop in the honey. One who starts out as Marcia did, priding herself on being blunt, and contemptuous of the little courtesies, is likely to come to old age friendless and embittered. Learn to be pleasant and take out the sting.—Exchange.

ADD COLOR TO THE GARDEN

Goldfinches, Always Attracted by Sunflowers, Make Beauty Spot Especially Attractive.

A very familiar bird in our gardens, especially when there are sunflowers growing there, is the beautiful little American goldfinch.

Their deep black wings and tail and little cap form a striking, though pleasing, contrast to their bright yellow bodies.

Because of their sweet, canary-like notes they are often called wild canaries.

They are very sociable little birds, being found usually in small flocks; they even build their nests in small communities.

When winter approaches the male changes his bright yellow coat for one of a soberer color closely resembling that of the female.

Numbers of them feed upon the sunflowers in my garden every year, and it is a pleasing sight to go in there and see their bright yellow bodies flashing in the sun.

They are hardy little fellows, spending the entire winter with us.—New York Sun.

Moving Pictures for the Home.

A comparatively inexpensive combination moving picture camera and projector for amateur use is illustrated in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It bears about the same relation to the costly and heavy professional machines as a compact, light camera does to a cumbersome apparatus employed by portrait photographers. Exclusive of its tripod, the new movie camera weighs less than three and a half pounds. It uses standard film and is operated as easily as any simple "still" instrument. The capacity of its magazine, designed for daylight loading, is twenty feet, which, because eight instead of sixteen pictures are taken per second, records as much action as forty feet of film in a professional machine. Sharp, clear pictures capable of reasonable enlargement for "stills" are obtained. By changing the lens attaching a light frame with reels of 200-foot capacity, and mounting a small, cylindrical lamphouse, the camera is converted into a projector.
